Although she has been crippled Ruth Strong of 516 East Avenue 28, Los Angeles, is today wearing an unusually happy smile. Ruth ordi- ium Monday noon. narily smiles and smiles, notwithstanding her misfortune, but this latest smile is smiller than the ordinary smile. It's like this;

Ruth has just been presented with a check through Judge Lowe for five grand, big, shining dollars -more money than she has had at one time for a long time, and right now she is planning how she shall spend the money. A large portion of it will, no doubt, go to buy things for her little sister and her mamma. The story of how Ruth came in possession of this check is interesting. A short time ago Miss Anna Kreller of Los Angeles came to Glendale and in some way violated the California Motor Vehicle law, for which she was fined $5 by Judge Lowe. The check in payment was made out to little Ruth, although

"I have several of these now. One little girl, 15 years, has never walked, but her poor little crippled body is beginning to look like a real girl now. Her mother has one other child and has to support all three by doing janitor work at night in an office building, as she has no one to take care of the crippled girl in day time.

"My treatments to the little girl are tree of charge and I am sure Judge Lowe would be more than pleased to send my money to the little crippled girl with his compilments. So will make check payable to Ruth Strong, 516 East Avenue 28, Los Angeles. It will be gratefully received,"

When Judge Lowe received this letter he saw the light. Immediately he remited the fine and sent he check to little Ruth. The gratefulness of the little sufferer is shown in the following letter, which shown in the following letter, which est of the temperance movement, she wrote to Judge Lowe, upon receipt of the check:

ORATORICAL CONTEST

Troop Achievement Competition Is Planned for the Fall

Declaring that the Scout leaders held a sacred trust and that the best men in the community are none too good for the organization, Judge Owen C. Emery made a stirring talk to the Boy Scout troop trict at the American Legion hall in Tujunga Monday night.

The meeting of the troop leaders' roundtable last evening was the first that has been held since last July when the group disbanded for the summer months. The American Legion hall at Tujunga is a most ideal place to meet in and considerable credit and thanks are the M. E. Hill, the scoutmaster and chief counsellor of the roundtable for the good time and excellent eatsfurnished the leaders.

Assistant Scoutmaster H. B. Rob ison told of the methods used in On Wednesday evening of this giving the tests to scouts and urged every leader to select special examiners for such subjects as first

Following the business session the leaders held an oratory contest in which two teams of three men each got up and addressed the audience at the same time. each man choosing his own topic to speak upon. The result was wonderful and caused considerable laughter Scoutmaster C. W. Angier, it was decided, made the most impressive speech of all. He was silent throughout the whole ordeal.

After this brief outburst of playfulness the lights were turned off and everybody gathered around the big open fireplace and roasted hotdogs, ate buns and drank hot cof They were served by several of the scouts of the Tujunga troop who made excellent hosts. The next meeting of the troop leaders' roundtable is scheduled to be held in Eagle Rock, November 13, at which Earl W. Rumsey, assistant probation officer of Los Angeles county, will speak, as also will Rex C. Kelly, secretary of the Glendale district Y. M. C. A.

"The Prisoner of Zenda," which was shown yesterday at the Glen-dale theatre, is one of the season's super-plays. The magic of Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horse-men," has given this old Anthony Hope classic of love and intrigue and adventure a new permanence on the screen. And as it comes to life in all the beauty and magnificence which only the screen could give it, it becomes a thing of pure romance and enchantment.

This picture may or may not have cost Metro a million dollars, but it is certain that it could have been no more beautifully nor no more impressively made had it cost ten times that amount. It would be impossible to suggest actors who could better the performances of the various members of the cast which has been assembled to impersonate the roles of these familiar characters who have thrilled thousands either through the printed page or in the Edward Rose stage

Lewis Stone gives a flawless performance of the dual role of Rassendyll and King Rudolph. Terry is a most charming and regal Princess Flavia. Robert Edeson is an ideal Colonel Sapt and Stuart Holmes and Ramon Navarro as Black Michael and Rupert of Hentzau are the perfect villains of your imagination. PAY OF A PROFESSOR daily in every way metropolitan.

The statement comes from Berkeley that a professor earning $100 a month cannot afford to marry. There could be no attempt at refutation of a truth so manifest. Of course exceptions might be consible. If, for example, the professor had fallen their to a fortune, and was teaching from altruistic impulses alone, he might even devote his $100 to charity. Similar conditions could prevail had he wood and won a woman of wealth who conceived him to be doing a noble work in training the pliant minds of youth. But if the professor is expectant.

of buying shelter, clothes, food, medical attention and amusements for two—to say nothing of possible additional responsibilities—on $100 per month, it is well to inform him that it can't be done. If instead of electing to become a teacher he had learned how to erect a wall, or to plaster a ceiling, such financial worries would have passed him by. Had he been a prize fighter, a ball player, or conquered the intricacies of jazz to the extent of torturing a saxophone, the pleasure of regarding the $100 as cigarette money easily might have been his. But, doubtless inspired of high ideals, he chose to be a professor. A professor is a highly useful individual. The training of the intellect involves vital effects. These have to do with morality and success. The competent professor deserves, and without question should have, adequate pay. That a man of spirit would be inclined to resent the proffer of $100 a month as an affront, is as plain as anything. Circumstances might even force him to accept it. But the sum could not support him In relation to a trial about to begin, one of the alone. It might sustain a meagre existence until he got a job worth while; but nothing else is to be consumed. This of course would include the

Not that the observations of two score years ago were inaccurate; astronomers are so satisfied that they are correct that they intend to compare the proposed measurements with the earlier ones.

'This comparison may throw new light on the form of the space that surrounds us; it may indicate whether the stars about us form a true universe or whether two separate entities are concerned. Dr. Schlesinger says: "Perhaps in the whole domain of physical science there is today no problem of greater phil.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There had been "big fours" long prior to the time when the title was bestowed upon the distinguished statesmen, Wilson, George, Orlando and Clemenceau. The designation had even been used to indicate a combination of railroads.

California's history is marked by two sets of big headed by Mackay, with Fair, Flood and O'Brien. They brought vast fortunes with them, and for a time thereafter were large figures in the financial world. Most of them left an abiding mark upon affairs. The Mackay millions still function in important commercial enterprises. The Fair for-tune, as such, has disappeared. The sons of the family proved themselves unworthy of their heritage. Both are dead, sisters surviving. The name of Flood still is linked with California. Huntington, Hopkins, Crocker and Stanford constitute another big four, and well they earned the distinction. They were railroad builders and empire builders. If they made greater profits than a strict accounting would have permitted, time has for the most part effaced the records. Two of the fortunes figure in the monetary world today. Stanford devoted a liberal share of his money to the founding of the university that bears his name. Of the share that fell to Hopkins, the end was tragic and yet farcical. It went to the second husband of Mrs. Hopkins, and from him into the hands of strangers. Aside from this was a portion that was given to an adopted son, who lives in luxury.

Such were two big fours of this coast, and they really were big in their accomplishment of tasks that weaker natures would have shrunk from undertaking.

People who desire to kill the initiative are afraid to state their purpose. They know that were the purpose revealed that vials of wrath would be emptied upon them. So their methods vials of wrath would be emptied upon them. So that methods are deceptive. They assert that to increase the signatures on an initiative petition from the present 8 per cent of the total of voters, to 15 per cent would prevent the circulation of frivolous petitions. So it would. Likewise, it would prevent the circulation of any and so it would. Likewise, it would prevent the circulation of any and all initiative petitions, which is exactly the object sought. The getting of signatures now is difficult enough to afford every essential restraint upon the most enthusiastic reformers. California has tried the initiative, likes it, believes in it, and will decline the request to slaughter it on anybody's altar of greed.

"Do not Loan Your Car" says a headline, this being good advice. "Do not Loan Your Car" says a headline, this being good advice. BY JOHN PILGRIM. This is not an appeal to the Lady of the House. Once a wife has become the Lady of the House-less formally called housewifeshe is hopeless. She rarely or never learns anything. She is so enthralled by her tremendous ability to keep dust off the mahogany center table and crumbs out of the rugs that she ceases to think. Hints, pleas and commands are lost upon her.

At least, that is my experience. And if Mrs. Pilgrim were ever see this I'm lost. Not that she is that sort of a housewife, but I'd never be able to make her believe I did not have her in mind. So this is a prayer, a dewy, wet, sobby petition, addressed to the brides of our fair nation. If they wish to keep their husbands contented, so that failings may be passed over and follies forgotten and even sins minimized, listen to these words of weight: "Wash the dear face before breakfast. Loop the hair back, so that it strings not over the forehead. Put on a clean, fresh, neat gown, even if you take it off as soon as the brute is out of the house. And above everything else, learn to make him a cup of good—GOOD—coffee." Practically every bride who reads this will turn up her delicious little nose and remark that John Pilgrim is an old fool and that she would not appear in a sloppy make-up at breakfast, and that, anyhow, if she did, her John would think her a bit of all right. And that he didn't mind if the coffee were not preciously

"He has a soul above coffee," says the sneering bride. Lady—la-dy—it isn't true. There isn't a man in the world who has a soul above coffee. And there isn't one of the male sex who had not rather see a bright, pretty, dainty little woman opposite than the same dear little girl in her natural morning state of shininess and loose locks. And many's the naturally good-natured dous influence with many senators and rep-resentatives. DeMille for his latest Paracount production of "Manslaugher," which begins today at the

Several years ago the same proucer gave to the screen his classic ale of the Maid of Orleans. At hat time thousands of "extras" lad in the picturesque costumes of the period, were to be seen faily around the studio and on the nassive sets for that picture. Since that date there have been nany huge scenes filmed at the vest coast home of Paramount lictures. Hundreds and even housands of people have worked imuutaneously before the camras. But it remained for Cecil 3. DeMille to again set a nark for sheer, spectacular splen-lor. And he did it with the Roian scenes in "Manslaughter." The episode, which is used to point a powerful moral, shows tome just before the fall-pagan tome with all of its freentious and debauched beauty. At eighth of the revel-while the quests; the dancers and the mards slumber in drunken stupor -the barbarian hordes storm the gates and pilage, burn and de-

DR. FUNK SPEAKS ON SICKNESS AND

SYMPATHY Speaking on the subject of Sickness and Sympathy," Dr. H. C. Funk spoke yesterday at the First Luthern church, in part as "This old world of ours has need of more mothers, more concern for others. But do not coddle a man when he is sick. Keep him quiet. Let him alone; keep company away from him and he will recover in half the time.

The church should take such good care of her members that there would be no occasion joining a benefit order. If the church will not provide for her sick members the lodge may become a very helpful institution. I haven't a word to say against any member of any order who values his lidge, but who will say, when it comes to laying away his body, "I want my church," which is the bride of Christ, and my pastor, who is divinely appointed

When you want a doctor you send for him, which is perfectly proper, but why don't you use the same good common sense when you want a minister? Don't find fault with him for not calling on you when you are sick, unless you send for him. How does he know that he is wanted? Sometimes people refuse to let him in when he does go. They are afraid he

he does go. They are afraid he will hunt up the largest chapter in the Bible, and after he has read that, pray for half an hour.

Of course, you couldn't stand it. Any minister is a fool who will go into a sick room like that. Although your pastor may not have uttered an audible word of prayer, many a petition has gone up to the Father's heart, pleading that He may bless the means that are being used for your recovery, that He may bestow the healing balm that will make you well and strong again." The blessing of the morning light The noon-day and the end, When with the years and Time we keep. The faith of life and go to sleep.

Hello, Good-day, and then Good-night, A blessing for the dawn, A word of gladness and of light As day keeps moving on. And then a benediction blest, When work is done and we may rest.

Hello, Good-day and then Good-night. Go forth upon the way Where the long road leads up the height, And then the shadows play

At eventide and day is stark

And dead and over us the dark

Hello, Good-day and then Good-night. Oh Friend, from Dawn to Noon, And then until the day takes flight Is all so soon—so soon! A moment and this life is spanned, A broken blossom in the hand.

Hello, Good-dya and then Good-night! It is so short a song, The day with its swift-rushing flight, And then the night so long. If in my haste I did offend, Forget and love me still, my Friend

By HENRY L. FARRELL United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Some of that stuff known in sport as a "heart" carried Gene Sarazen, America's greatest little golfer, to the unofficial open championship of the world recently.

To have a "heart" means in slangy parlance that you "curl up" or "dog it" when the going gets rough. Sarazen was playing Walter Hagen, said to be the finest match player in the world and one that never got on his real game until he was in trouble.

Sarazen went into the last round two down on Hagen. He came He left the golf course and went on an operating table for ap-

Playing such a game with a pain-stricken side is what they call around the ring-"much guts."

If the heart of the New York Yankees had been a little bit stronger, the New York Giants would not have won the series in straight games. They might not have won at all. The Yanks were licked from the first game, they knew it and they weren't particular about disguising their feelings. In making uncomplimentary remarks about the Yankees permit three exceptions—Joe Dugan, Wally Schang and Wally Pipp.

They played their heads off. Schang did some foolish base running in the fourth game, but it was the result of too much heart and taking too much of a chance.

Young Bob Meusel, who is one of the best exmaples of how the outfield should not be played, is one of the several Yankees that are slated for transportation elsewhere before the opening of Meusel ought to be one of the best outfielders. He has the finest throwing arm in baseball. He can bat and he is fast on his feet, with good fielding andgracht. He is also lazy, indolent in thinking, diffident to the point of exasperation and prone to work on low speed all the time. Those are the reasons why he is not a ball player and why no major league club will be keen to try their hands at handling him. He is like his brother, "Irish" Meusel of the Glants in that they both have legs and the same name.

Reports, very timely with the football season, are going around that the Giants had all the Yankee signals in the world's series. They had everything else, too.

During the last game of the series the Yanks were riding Umpire Bill Klem. He warned them several times and finally went over to the dugout, saying in a tone plainly audible in the stands: "You ought to do more playing on the field and less mouthing in

Come to Glendale

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Castile and daughter, Mrs. Minnie Lloyd and two children, Katherine and Virginia, are here from York, Nebraska, to make Glendale their permanent home. They arrived Friday and have been the house guests for several days of their son and brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Castile, 907 South Mariposa avenue. The newcomers have located temporarily at 217 South Jackson street and it is expected that they will meet a lot of old time friends right here in Glendale.

GLENDALE'S GREATEST BOOK OF THRIFT The Classified Advertising Pages of the

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS

They are the most eagerly followed pages in the city—thrifty men and women who have particular wants scan the classified columns of the Glendale Daily Press regularly. The Want Ad has come to be a powerful little magic servant One needs but to wish for satisfaction of a want, and the way is open for fulfillment. For those who want positions, the "Employment" want-ads point out specific opportunities. Employers use the columns to find the right people for the right places. Under the heading of "Business Opportunities," the man who is seeking a good investment may find a l
